LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

We desire to procure the services of a local agent in every Postoffice District in the State. Will our friends act, or procure the services of some efficient person in our behalf? Believing that the circulation of the Democrat may be materially extended, we make this appeal to our friends in its behalf.

Dr. Orestes A. Brownson was vain enough to run as an Abolition candidate for Congress in New Jersey. Aside from his radical doctrines, a more unfit man for the public councils in a crisis like this could hardly be found in the United States. No one is more deficient in the practical sense necessary in the affairs of men. We want statesmen now, practical men, not concealed logicians, dreamy theorists and eloquent noddles.

The people of New Jersey had too much practical sense to send such a man as Brownson to Congress. They gave him leave to stay at home by five thousand majority. There are a great many people in this country capable of self-government yet; people who stay at home and learn common sense in the common vocations of life.

It was something in favor of Lincoln that he split rails once. There is good sense to be learned in splitting rails. The wise fortune was that Lincoln had quit splitting rails, and lost the wisdom he acquired in that calling. If he would now split rails a few weeks he could not be humbugged by noodles, politicians, preachers, editors, lawyers, strong-minded women and such like. A little learning is a dangerous thing in common minds it supersedes common sense, as in the case of Brownson, Robert Dale Owen, id omne genus.

A POLIC.—The policy of the radicals, which has chiefly governed this war, has divided the North and united the South, instead of dividing the South and uniting the North. If they succeed as well in their pestilent efforts as they have done up to this time, there is no telling what will turn up; and if they do not succeed, it will not be for want of trying. They care not for a popular verdict. They didn't dose the country enough with radicalism; that is the reason of their want of success, in their estimation. The idea that their creed and purpose are condemned! It is preposterous! It is incredible! If it were, it would only prove that the people were stupid and incompetent to appreciate. It is idle to reason with a partisan fanatic. He knows vast detail—can't inform him; and to question his infallibility only shows one's folly. If you rebuke a fanatic, all the worse for you, in his estimation. A popular majority, however, is apt to be master at last, even of fanatics, and we trust it will be so at present.

A TREASONABLE THREAT.—A few days before the election in New York, the Ulric Herald, a raving radical Republican newspaper, put forth the following as the Re publican programme, in case of a Democratic victory:

If Horatio Seymour is elected, there are two desperate remedies left to reunite the North and thereby save the country. One is an immediate war with England; the other military chafing whom the soldiers truly love, and who will return the Republic to the people (a dangerous chance) after he has snatched it from its present rulers.

On the 20th of November, the Ulric Herald, a raving radical Republican newspaper, put forth the following as the Re publican programme, in case of a Democratic victory:

Another naval officer has gone. Commodore Garret J. Pendergrast, a native of Kentucky, died at his residence at Philadelphia on the 6th instant, after a prolonged paralytic stroke. He entered the service in 1812, served on Lake Erie, and subsequently on the war vessels Franklin, Erie, Cyane and Washington, receiving a lieutenant's commission in 1828. In 1827, after two years' furlough, he joined the sloop-of-war Lexington, alternating for several years after between furloughs and different vessels. In 1841 he was made a Commander, and in 1842 sailed on a three-year's cruise in the sloop-of-war Boston. In 1847, he took command of the Navy Yard at Memphis, Tennessee, where he remained three years. In 1852 he commanded the steam frigate Saranac, was subsequently transferred to the Columbia, and in May, 1855, received his commission as captain. From 1857 he was on furlough, or awaiting orders.

When the war broke out in 1861, Commodore Pendergrast was flag-officer of the Home Squadron, but a few months later was ordered to the command of the Navy Yard at Philadelphia, a position he held at the time of his death. He had been a faithful sailor and officer, and if his career was not brilliant, it was useful. Over half of his naval life has been spent in active service.

SIXTY YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE.—A few days since the Rev. David Lewis, of Newark, Ohio, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of his marriage. A very large assemblage of relatives and friends were present, including those from Vermont and Massachusetts. The respective ages of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were eighty and seventy-nine. Two visitors from the Eastern States had numbered, one seventy-eight year, the other eighty, and all seemed to enjoy almost the vigor of youth. This happy meeting took place at the residence of Dr. Miner; and the hostess on this occasion was dressed in a bridal robe of her mother's, worn sixty years ago, with sleeves to the elbow, short waisted and flowing train, and a cap of corresponding antiquity. Upon the table was placed the beautiful wrought linen, the handiwork of that mother in her maiden days, and graced with the same antique blue china ware. There were the same mugs that contained the sparkling cider, the tall coffee-pot, and the same tea pot that was by its side, with its surrounding group of cups, and even the tiny silver spoons that had been used at the marriage feast.

LINCOLN AND DOUGLASS.—Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States of America, and Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy thereof, do hereby proclaim and declare that, on the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, all persons held as slaves within any State, or any designated part of a State, the people whereof shall be in rebellion against the United States, shall be then, thenceforward and forever free, and the Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authorities thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of such persons, and will do no act or acts to repress such person, or any of them, in any efforts they may make for their actual freedom.—Preamble.

If these conservatives had only known how strong they were in the free States, they would have carried them all, and left the radicals entirely out in the cold. The most of the radicals that have been elected were elected by mistake. The people didn't intend it; but they didn't know in time that they could help it.

We reprint the report of General Negley of the skirmishes near Nashville. They were highly creditable to our forces. We had various rumors from Nashville. This is authentic; and, thanks to the vigilance and skill of Gen. Negley, it is all it could be with such a calamity!

Our neighboring State of Indiana has poured out her soldiers in this war without stint, and they have done credit to the State in numerous battlefields. One of an immediate war with England; the other military chafing whom the soldiers truly love, and who will return the Republic to the people (a dangerous chance) after he has snatched it from its present rulers.

They must admit, then, that they have but little credit with the people. They said, day by day, that the Democrats were opposed to the war altogether. This was their testimony. Of course they see the people didn't believe them.

Our neighboring State of Indiana has poured out her soldiers in this war without stint, and they have done credit to the State in numerous battlefields. One of an immediate war with England; the other military chafing whom the soldiers truly love, and who will return the Republic to the people (a dangerous chance) after he has snatched it from its present rulers.

It is not safe to aspire to high positions that one is not fit for. A court of inquiry is apt to report in some emergency that the officer is not competent to the position of honor he has attained to. And down the delinquent falls—all the lower for his exaltation. Ford lives, but he had better for his reputation never been an officer. Better not been known at all than known as he is. Let men beware how they climb to high places.

If these conservatives had only known how strong they were in the free States, they would have carried them all, and left the radicals entirely out in the cold. The most of the radicals that have been elected were elected by mistake. The people didn't intend it; but they didn't know in time that they could help it.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.—Wednesday, Nov. 12. Baxter Massots, charged with stealing a horse from Wm. Scott, in Trimble county; continued until Saturday.

George S. Stewart, disorderly conduct; held over in $100 to keep the peace for three months.

John M. Shaw alias Charles Miller, charged with stealing a horse from some unknown person; discharged.

A peace warrant by the Harritz family vs. the O'Mally family; both families were placed under bonds to keep the peace towards each other.

New Books.—We are indebted to Mr. L. A. Civil for "P. McGregor's System of Logic"—book of nearly five hundred pages. It discusses the various means of acquiring and retaining knowledge and avoiding error. It is from the press of Harper & Brothers.

"ORLEY FARM," a novel, by Anthony Trollope, is before us. It has commanded a good deal of attention, as it has been produced in weekly parts. The volume is now complete.

Those who would enjoy its pages, can find the book at L. A. Civil's book store, on Main street, near Fifth.

COAL OIL.—At 60 cents per gallon, at Gay's China Palace, Fourth and Green.

MATSVILLE COAL OIL.—Mr. S. R. Shepard, No. 528, Main street, has become sole agent for the manufacturers of the Mavsville coal oil. The high character of the Mavsville oil has brought it into general favor wherever it has been sold. For burning or lubricating purposes it ranks among the best in the country, and its various qualities are adapted to the wants of the trade and consumers, whether for light or mechanical purposes. Mr. Shepard is favorably known as merchant and citizen, and we take pleasure in directing dealers to his establishment.

Gen. Boyle has information to the effect that Captain W. T. Pepper, from the Fourth Indiana Cavalry, has returned from a scout in the neighborhood of Heberdsville, Henderson county, Kentucky, where he succeeded in breaking up a rebel camp of guerrillas. He took five prisoners and a number of horses and arms. The others precipitately fled.

INQUEST NO. 44.—Held Nov. 12, at Park Barracks, on the body of Henry Corcoran, Company E, 12th Michigan regiment. Verdict:—"Came to his death on the 11th of November, near the Oakland Course, by being run over by the cars."

JAS. C. GILL, Coroner.

Sixty Cents.—For one gallon of coal oil at Gay's China Palace, Fourth and Green.

The Nashville train came in on time last evening, bringing forty paroled Federal prisoners, and twenty-four sick and wounded rebel prisoners. There is no news along the line of the road. The passenger train went down as far as Mitchellville yesterday.

D. S. Brady & Co., on Main street, near the Bank of Kentucky, have an "Army Bitter," which is in high favor. It is a palatable and useful tonic. It is just the season of the year for a little bracing, and Brady's Army Bitters fills the bill.

The Lebanon train arrived on time last evening, bringing some twelve rebel prisoners sick and wounded; also seven sick and wounded Federal soldiers. There was no news of importance, and all is quiet along the route.

There were some forty odd prisoners brought down by the Lexington train last night—ten of them from the neighborhood of Bagdad, and the remainder from Lexington.

The 27th of November instant has been generally designated as a day of thanksgiving in the loyal states of the Union.

SKIRMISH NEAR CALHOUN, KY.—We learn from a reliable gentleman, who arrived on the steamer Cottage Tuesday morning, that on Friday night last Major Kinney, of Col. Shanks' regiment, with about two hundred men under his command, started out from camp on a guerrilla hunt. After proceeding some distance, he divided his command into two or three companies, under different officers. One of these companies, consisting of about sixty men, came upon a rebel camp in the neighborhood of Calhoun, under the command of a Captain Little, of that place, who had about forty men. They surprised the rebels, killed one, wounded one, whom they took prisoner, and the balance skedaddled in good order, making their escape. The company returned to camp, having captured twenty-five horses, saddles, bridles, caps, boots, shoes, and various other articles which the rebels had doubtless stolen. Col. Shanks' men are making that part of the country too hot for the rebels to stay in. Keep them moving, Colonel; watch them, Major.

FAST DRIVING.—We understand that Chief of Police Stancliff, is determined to enforce the city ordinances against fast riding and driving in the streets. Citizens will be brought before the police court and, those in the army, or connected with it, will be arrested and turned over to the military authorities. We are glad to see this movement. The violation of the city ordinances on this point, has of late become criminal, and we trust will be effectually stopped.

SOLDIER KILLED.—Day before yesterday Henry Corcoran, of Co E, 12th Michigan, was accidentally run over by the cars near the Oakland race course, and killed. He had been discharged from the service, and expected to go home in a few days. It is supposed that he had been drinking, and while drunk had lain down on the track. He leaves a wife and children in New Buffalo, Mich.

NEW MUSIC.—We are indebted to D. P. Faulds, of Main street, for the following new music: "My Maryland, my Maryland," with Union words, and brilliant varieties in the same air, as an instrumental piece; also, "The Dying Volunteer." Mr. F. has a splendid stock of new and excellent music.

MINISTERS.—Mozart Hall has become a very popular place of amusement, judging by the audiences that nightly throng thither. The songs and dances of the Campbells are fine, the burlesques capital, and the pantomimes excellently done.

THE MANAGEMENT OF THE WAR.—The Chicago Tribune, the leading Republican journal of the west, has long been a bitter enemy to Gen. McClellan, an opponent to Gen. Halleck, and the Secretary of War, and not over friendly to President Lincoln, discourses through its Washington correspondents as follows:

"You are right in the opinion that the military organization of the triumvirate does not exist—in very much like that of which Antony and Octavius Caesar were the members during the weeks immediately preceding the battle of Actium. Were it in Gen. Halleck's power to decide, Gen. McClellan's head would roll into the same basket which holds that of Gen. Buell.

"It is weeks since he said to the President, 'I despair of forcing or persuading Gen. McClellan to obey my orders. Had not you better try to make him obey yours?'

"And now it is literally true that neither he nor the Secretary of War has, or desires to have, any voice in matters pertaining to the army of the Upper Potowmac. It was General Halleck, also, by whose order Gen. Buell was superseded the first time, and it was Gen. Halleck, whose order relieved him. So much is certainly to be said in his favor.

"He has not allowed West Point sympathies to constrain his judgment or to hamper his sympathies in the case of the two Major Generals, whose influence in retarding the vigorous prosecution of the war has been so malign. When their inefficiency was unveiled to him he opened his eyes and said in his favor.

"He is not allowed West Point sympathies to constrain his judgment or to hamper his sympathies in the case of the two Major Generals, whose influence in retarding the vigorous prosecution of the war has been so malign. When their inefficiency was unveiled to him he opened his eyes and said in his favor.

"He improves, those say who come into contact with him, even in this respect; is susceptible of improvement—not a rapid learner, regarding some matters very slow to learn, indeed, but still not utterly sealed to the entrance of light."

The truth will all come out after awhile.
